

Employee Scheduling

Optimize your most important resource—your people—just by changing the way you schedule. Rising minimum wages, increased regulations and a tight labor market mean effective scheduling is more important than ever. And while producing a great schedule does require a great forecast, the scheduling system you use can mean the difference between just OK and game-changing performance.

Not all scheduling solutions are created equal. To deliver stellar customer service without over- or under-scheduling, you must be able to schedule at the task level and cross-schedule your people. You also need the right scheduling logic and measurement. Extra cutting-edge abilities like gig-style scheduling take you the extra mile if you so choose.

4 powerhouse catalysts to deliver the best schedules, period.

While everyone claims to schedule the right associates at the right time, Logile uniquely takes it a step further. Our customers agree the following unmatched capabilities have definitively changed their scheduling game with dramatic results.

- Task-based scheduling. Schedule to actual tasks—not just job codes—for maximized efficiency and productivity.
- Cross-department, wall-to-wall scheduling. Increase utilization by scheduling all your departments across the store using optimization.
- Scheduling effectiveness measurement. Analyze all schedule versions—system-generated, edited, actual and earned—to prove performance and identify opportunities.
- Schedule costing and scheduling to budget. Understand the true cost of a schedule. Schedule within budget constraints via automated hours realignment intelligence.

Gain a creative new solution to address labor challenges with Gig-Style Scheduling Logile Gig-Style Scheduling uniquely adapts the successful ride-share gig and crowdsource model to work in the retail operational environment, helping retailers effectively manage staffing shortages while attracting and retaining workers. Leverage this ground-breaking mobile solution as a new strategic tool to supplement your labor pool to effectively cover staffing needs across your organization.

With Logile’s solution, gig workers are employees of your company approved by you to bid on shifts outside the associates’ primary store and departments. Crowdsourced workers are not current company employees but are vetted and preapproved by you to bid on shifts for specific roles, departments and stores if managers open shifts to crowdsourced status. Workers love it and your shifts get covered according to your rules and specifications: It’s a win-win!
